

To whom it may concern,

I understand that we are currently experiencing high inflation and it is affecting my family's finances. That being said, I cannot support what appears to be a reactive Senate Bill 22 to reduce the sales tax without understanding how the overall state budget will be affected. As we all know, the state still faces hefty pension obligations that continue to threaten generations of state residents. I am not owed any sort of pension, but I am cognizant that until the pension deficits are under control we cannot afford to slash taxes without a plan to reduce these obligations.

Sincerely,

Kurt van Heiningen
205 Seckar Road,
Ashford, CT 06278